DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jansen et al. (USPN 6,6520,935).

Jansen et al. discloses a tamper-evident closure for a syringe, said closure comprising: a syringe cylinder having a plastic connection end provided with a Luer connection; and a cap and a frangible web formed as a single injection molded plastic part, said cap engaging over at least said Luer connection; wherein said frangible web is connected to said connection end by one of a material-fit connection and an adhesive bond (see figure 4, 5,7,8 and entire reference).

3. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Reinhard et al. (USPN 6,280,418).

Reinhard et al. discloses a tamper-evident closure for a syringe, said closure comprising: a syringe cylinder having a plastic connection end provided with a Luer connection; and a cap and a frangible web formed as a single injection molded plastic part, said cap engaging over at least said Luer connection; wherein said frangible web is connected to said connection end by one of a material-fit connection and an adhesive bond (see figure 3 and entire reference).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jansen et al. or Reinhard et al. as applied to claims above, and further in view of Whitney (USPN 4,220,151).

Jansen et al. or Reinhard et al. discloses the claimed invention except for the specific polymers and materials that the syringe, and closure are made from.

Whitney discloses a Luer needle connector that can being made from polypropylene or the like, because of the added benefit that polypropylene provides.

Therefore, at the time of the invention it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to combine the device of Jansen et al. or Reinhard et al. with the teachings of Whitney because of the added benefit polypropylene provides. According to Whitney in background section, Whitney describes that it is well known in the medical art to make Luer connectors out of polypropylene because the polymer doesn't interact with the drugs and/or medicament that are used in syringe and the polymer is a relatively tough material (Column 1, lines 20-25). Thus Whitney showed that it would have been obvious to modify the device of Jansen et al. or Reinhard et al. due to the fact that it is well known in the medical art to make Luer connectors and syringes out of polypropylene as well as the added benefit that is taught in Whitney.
